NEW SYSTEM FORMED.

For the Guidance of National Bank Examiners.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—In furtherance of his plans for obtaining a more accurate insight into the condition of national banks, Comptroller of the Currency Murray has developed a new system for the guidance of the national bank examiners. By its means, it is fully expected, there will be established in the office of the comptroller a regular credit bureau, by which it will be possible for him to keep tabs on the financial transactions, not only of the officers and directors of the banks themselves, but of all the big borrowers of the country.

Under this system, the comptroller believes that should operations such as those which landed C. W. Morse in the Atlanta prison be tried it will be found impossible. He has sent out to every national bank examiner a series of forms upon which they are required to make returns on a number of important matters heretofore required of them. The information thus acquired will be held in confidence from the public, but it will be of so intimate a nature and of such immense financial importance if it should fall into the hands of the wrong man that there is reason to believe that there will be objection from the banks.

For instance, section five of the new list of questions requires every national bank examiner to furnish the names of all "financiers of questionable methods," whose operations extend into their districts. The words quoted are printed in capital letters to give them more prominence.

Another form is to be used to give a statement of the "doubtful or questionable paper" in which the officers or directors of banks are interested, giving the name of the borrower and of the bank, the amount in each bank and the total in each district. This is to be supplemented by similar reports as to the same kind of paper of persons or firms other than officers and directors, and the inquiry is to be made more searching by extending it to a report as to "large or extended lines of credit," in which officers or others may be interested.

It may readily be seen that such reports as these, covering the eleven districts into which the country is divided, will make interesting reading if made public. It can also be realized that they will give the comptroller's office such an insight into the affairs of the national banks of the country as has never heretofore been attempted, especially when they are accompanied by a report from each examiner as to which banks in their districts require close watching, which have suffered from defalcations, and a list of borrowers whose principal headquarters or place of business is outside the district.

Beginning a year ago, Comptroller Murray inaugurated a system by which he brought the examiners together periodically to exchange views among themselves, so that the more experienced could impart some of their knowledge to the younger men in the service.

This year, the semi-annual meetings will take place at the headquarters of each district during the first two weeks of July. It is the comptroller's intention that the reports on the various subjects outlined above shall be read aloud at these meetings and be made the subject of discussion, the referees to be finally sent to him for tabulation in the treasury department.

Also he has designated subjects upon which the chairman of each district will be required to read a carefully prepared paper for discussion by the examiners present. Thus to Alfred Ewer, chairman of district number 1, whose headquarters are at Boston and whose district includes all of New England, has been assigned the preparation of a paper on "The best method of co-operation with clearing house associations, where there is no clearing house examiner."

Chas. A. Hays, whose district includes New York, New Jersey and Delaware, will write on "The Reconciliation of accounts with correspondent banks and suggestions for improvement."

A comprehensive system of credits is the subject assigned to Frank L. Norris, with headquarters at Philadelphia, and whose district comprises eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

Henry A. Williams, with headquarters at Pittsburgh and with a district including Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, will discuss "Co-operation between a bank examiner and the officers and directors of national banks."

"The verification of individual ledgers and the good results that may be accomplished thereby," is assigned to Percy H. Johnston, whose headquarters are at Lebanon, Kentucky, and whose district comprises that state and Tennessee, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

"E. F. Rorback of Chicago, who supervises the examiners in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin, will talk on "Methods of examinations and suggested improvements."

"Why an examiner should not accept help from bank employees" is the subject given to J. A. Rathbone of Minneapolis, whose district includes Minnesota, northern Iowa, and North and South Dakota.

Frank C. Hicks of St. Louis will tell "How best to co-operate with clearing-house examiners" from his experience in southern Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

"The advisability and practicability of convening boards of directors for national bank examiners at the time of the examinations to lay before them such matters as need correction," will be discussed by J. M. Logan of Fort Worth, whose district includes Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

F. L. Klein of Denver, supervising Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, will discuss "Extended lines of credit which entangle such lines and the dangers in connection therewith."

E. T. Wilson of Seattle will tell the examiners of Washington, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Nevada and California, "How the best results may be obtained by co-operation with state examiners."

About the State

The Vermont State Federation of Women's clubs is to be held in St. Paul's Universalist church in Rutland June 1 and 2.

Rev. Thomas Kattage has resigned as pastor of the Congregational church in North Troy, after several years' service.

Fifty friends and neighbors gathered May 17 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Folger in West Pawlet to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. They were the recipients of $25 in gold and as much more in greenbacks.

Rev. Thomas Packard of Fleming, N. Y., has accepted a call to the Baptist church at Rosedboro and began his pastoral there last Sunday. Mr. Packard has had eight years' experience in the ministry and has just completed a three years' course in the Rochester Theological seminary.

Charles W. Pettis, aged nearly 101 years, died May 14 at the home of C. H. Parker of Post Mills. Mr. Pettis was born in Granville, July 16, 1809, passing his long life in different localities of his native state. In the early years of his life he was a contractor and builder in the city of Burlington, and for many years followed the occupation of sinking deep wells for water. For the past eleven years he had made his home in the family of Mr. Parker.

Alfred Lamonde of Burlington, for 42 years in the barber business, during which time he has also conducted a shop on the lake steamer, has just retired. Mr. Lamonde has had an interesting career on the steamer, starting in as a cabin boy, 47 years ago, on the old steamer, America. For 42 years he conducted a barber shop on the different steamer, having been on the America, H. W. Sherman, Champlain, the old Vermont and the new Vermont. He was on every trip of the old Vermont.

The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Collins, an aged Dorset couple, occurred within a space of 23 hours. Mrs. Collins died Friday morning after a long illness with a cancerous trouble and her husband died the next morning of old age and worry over his wife's illness. He was 83 years and she was 82 years old. They had been married 48 years and since their marriage had always lived in the house in which they died. They leave one son, Dr. Jerome H. Collins of Granville, N. Y., a dentist. A double funeral was held at the house in Dorset Sunday.

I. O. F. Smith, the oldest employee of the Estey Organ company in continuous service, has resigned his position and will give up active employment Saturday night. He went to Brattleboro from Willimantic and 44 years ago the 23rd day of last October began work for the organ company there. His service since then has been unbroken, and he has never been away for a vacation of more than two weeks. He has worked on actions the past 34 years, and has had charge of one room on contract work the past 20 years. Mr. Smith proposes to rest and take things easily during the summer.

William B. Ballou, formerly of Newfane, has lived in Rampart, Alaska, 12 years. He was appointed to take the census of that precinct beginning Nov. 1, and in discharging his duty was 250 miles north to assist the census enumerator in the region of Fort Yukon, which took until March 12. He traveled 1900 miles on snow shoes, with an Indian guide, who went ahead of the dog team and broke the snow crust in front of the dogs, which carried the food and extra clothing. One time when they returned to the fort they were nearly starved. Four times the thermometer went 60 below zero. Mr. Ballou received $3000 and the expenses were $1200.

Paymaster G. P. Auld, U. S. N., son of Joseph Auld, editor of the Burlington News, has been transferred from the U. S. N. Pennsylvania on the Pacific station to duty as pay officer of the U. S. S. Washington. The latter vessel is now at Puget sound, but after a visit to the Chiling expedition at Valparaiso in September is expected to proceed to the Atlantic coast by way of Straits of Magellan. The Washington will probably join her sister ships, the Carolina and Tennessee, all of 14,500 tons, in forming the armored cruiser division of the battleship fleet, with headquarters at Portsmouth, N. H.

Miss Mary Adams, aged 29, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Adams, formerly of Rutland, died at her home at Winsted, Conn., with William Robert Baird of Hot Springs, Ark., her uncle, aged 54. At the time of their marriage the groom gave his name as William Robert and his age as 45, while the bride gave her age as 22. The coming of the bride's father brought out the fact that both had misinterpreted their ages and that the man did not give his whole name. Mr. Adams alleges that Baird conducted a gambling joint and has deserted a wife in the West. Mr. Adams' wife and Baird's wife are sisters and the friendship developed while both families were living in the same house in the West. The Adams family then moving East to Windsor Hill, Conn. They lived in Rutland before going West. The couple had considerable trouble in finding any one willing to marry them, but succeeded at last in having the ceremony performed by a justice of the peace. The elopers are supposed to be in New York.

Gift of Noted Statue to Church.

Announcement is made of a valuable gift which will come into the possession of the Unitarian church at Brattleboro, in due time. It is a replica of the "Snow Angel" or "Reverend Angel," which started Larkin G. Mead on the road to fame as a sculptor, and it will be presented by Henry K. Willard of Washington as a memorial to his father and mother, Henry Augustus Willard and Sarah Bradley Willard. Henry K. Willard, who is travelling in Europe with a party of Brattleboro friends and members of the Unitarian parish, that he has visited Mr. Mead at his home in Florence, Italy, and has commissioned him to reproduce in marble the "Snow Angel," which he moulded in snow on the last night of the year 1850, near where the Wells fountain now stands. The statue attracted widespread attention and people from neigh-oring towns and even distant cities came to look upon it, it standing until the January thaw set in. Soon after, Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati gave him a commission to execute a statue of the same figure in marble and it now stands in the rotunda of the capitol at Washington. It was the beginning of Mead's fame.

TESTING SUGAR BEET SEED.

Upon It Rests Ability of Roots to Produce Maximum Quantity of Sugar.

Testing the roots is one of the most important steps in the production of beet seed, since the value of the seed depends not only upon its quality from the standpoint of germination, but also upon the ability of the roots produced to store a maximum quantity of sugar with a minimum quantity of salts. With our present knowledge of seed production the standard of high grade seed can be maintained only by the most careful and rigid testing and elimination of all roots that are not of a satisfactory quality. Having selected roots of suitable size and shape, a typical root is removed by means of a drill which is passed through the beet at an angle, as shown in the illustration. This core is tested for sugar by the usual polariscopic methods. The ability of a seed grower to maintain high quality in the root is one of the most important conditions in the establishment and maintenance of the beet seed industry, says the year book of the department of agriculture.

There is a great deal of confusion in the minds of plant breeders regarding the real purpose of the selection of the roots from the standpoint of sugar content. Careful observation would seem to indicate that breeding and selection for high sugar content have to do mainly with the elimination of those individual roots that will not respond readily to favorable conditions of soil and climate with respect to the formation and storage of sugar and the preservation and perpetuation of those roots that will respond to those conditions. High sugar content, therefore, does not seem to be a fixed character in the same sense as color, form, etc., but will vary to a marked degree when the conditions of growth are changed. For example, seeds from the same plant when planted in different parts of the country have been known to produce roots having a difference of more than 7 per cent in the sugar content, while the shape, color and general habits of growth remained the same. The importance of selecting the seed for sugar content cannot be overestimated, and because of the importance of this work and the difficulties attending it, sugar beet seed growing can be carried on successfully only with special equipment, by the exercise of the greatest care and consequently at considerable expense.
